A healthy start for care providers

Health Minister Ong Ye Kung participating in a warm-up session before leading more than 1,000 nurses from the National University Health System institutions on a brisk walk from Town Green at NUS University Town to the NUS University Cultural Centre on Saturday morning. The workout was part of Nurses' Day celebration. At the UCC auditorium, Mr Ong's reiteration of a $15,000 sign-on bonus for fresh nurses and a retention incentive for current nurses drew loud applause from the audience. Earlier on, he said improvements are being made to "make things better" and "bring down the workload".
